Course Overview

This intermediate course for shoulder surgeons offers a combination of hands-on training and theoretical discussions centered on arthroscopy. Participants will have the chance to engage in case discussions with our renowned faculty. Furthermore, the course includes an overview of materials used in Sports Medicine and outpatient flat rates, while facilitating the exchange of experiences among peers.

Target Group

This course is designed for intermediate shoulder surgeons who seek to improve their skills and gain more knowledge in arthroscopy - including biceps tenodesis, instability and rotator cuff repair surgeries.

Learning Objectives

- Master basic techniques in arthroscopic shoulder surgery.
- Enhance decision-making through case discussions with expert faculty.
- Discover new innovative material and techniques to improve patient outcomes.
